

For those reasons the company is currently investing a considerable effort and amounts of money in welfare products What we want to do, what everyone wants to do is to come up with snack foods that you enjoy eating and yet are better for you," says Raymond Cook, the managing director and owner of Argo Foods.
 The company is already developing new chips and snack products and reserves product. It set up a dedicated research and development unit within the company According to the company, the new products will be available in the near future.